NGI Subscriber User Guides:
All News Access: Subscription Access

Login: For NGI Site Access, always make sure you are logged in. The red boxes at top right depict both situations - the top is what a non-logged-in user will see, while the bottom shows what you will see after a successful login. The login box is found at the top right-hand corner of every page on our website. If you’re uncertain of your login credentials, first review our help docs entitled “How to Log Into the NGI Website” and if still unsure, read “How to Get Help from NGI”

Basic Access: The smaller blue boxes above show how to get to the NGI All News Access area of our website from our homepage (www.naturalgasintel.com). Hover your mouse over “NGI” and the menu that you see above will appear. The first option down is NGI All News Access - click it. Shortcut: If you hover over MY NGI WELCOME, you will see a dropdown list. Clicking any option will take you there directly.

You’ll now see the screen at right. The red box highlights the beginning of our All News Access articles. This content will be organized by issue date and divided by category into Markets, E&P, Infrastructure, and Regulatory (in that order) with the most recent content at the top.

The blue box at top right of the graphic allows you to select other recent editions of All News Access - this can be useful if you’d like to view NGI coverage from a particular day. The archive function goes back 30 days. If you’d like to access articles relating to any topic, please use our search bar (green box, top right) to input your topic. Our search accepts both text and boolean values and the results can be organized by relevance or recency.
